

By David Gollust

<http://www1.voanews.com/english/news/news-analysis/Obama-Administration-Prepares-for-China-Human-Rights-Dialogue-93337359.html>

But Scott Flipse, Director of East Asia Policy and Programs at the U.S. Commission on International Religious Freedom, or

USCIRF

, says working level meetings on human rights are not worthwhile, if they only produce agreements to continue talking.

Flipse says U.S. concerns on China human rights issues would be more effectively raised by Secretary of State Hillary Clinton at the Beijing strategic dialogue.